Fire dept director to the aid of blazing ambulance

KOTA KINABALU: Sabah Fire and Rescue Department director Nordin Pauzi was driving home from work Saturday evening when he saw an ambulance on fire near the Queen Elizabeth Hospital here.

He immediately pulled over to check. Luckily, it was an ambulance that had just dropped off a patient and its driver was searching for a parking when the engine caught fire.

"The driver had already gotten out of the ambulance," Nordin said, adding that he found a fire extinguisher inside and tried putting out the flames.

He also managed to bring out flammables, including an oxygen tank, from the ambulance while waiting for backup to arrive.

Soon after, a team of firemen from the Sembulan Fire Station arrived and brought the fire under control.
