

to prevent the waste from flowing into Sungai Linggi where the water treatment plant is located," she said.

She also advised residents living near the river to avoid approaching or bringing their livestock to the river for the moment, to allow cleaning work to be done immediately.

"I also like to call on the public, if they saw a tanker or truck carrying barrels in suspicious manners coming into inappropriate areas such as riverbanks, lakes and remote areas to contact the nearest DoE office.

"Take down important information such as truck registration number, type of truck and others. If possible, take pictures to get details on the vehicle such as company name as well as truck registration number," she said. — Bernama
